About the LPRC

In the aftermath of the 2006 Portland Platform Massacre, which saw the removal of thirty-five years' worth of carefully crafted platform planks, the Libertarian Party Radical Caucus was founded as the spiritual successor to the 1979-1984 Radical Caucus.

Its aim is to ensure the Libertarian Party remains committed to its foundational principles and nominates candidates who understand what it means to be libertarian.

Since 2016 it has maintained the LPRC Platform for outreach and as a reference within the Libertarian Party, created informative brochures, and endorsed candidates who embody radical libertarian values.

About this Guide

The buttons and stickers documented in this guide are another activity of the LPRC. Since 2016, the LP Radical Caucus has had a program to produce message-based event buttons. As of circa January 2024, there are over 400 included messages across two templates, various standalones, and six size categories. This guide was created to assist in maximizing the use of these buttons and related materials for keeping the LP on message, reaching out to party members on behalf of the LPRC, and reaching out to the general public on behalf of the Libertarian Party.

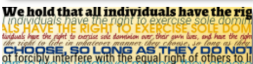

Work on it is still in progress. Planned changes from the previous edition (Punk Hill, July 2023) are hoped to include information about sets, sheet feature information for 25mm and 32mm, an improved definition for the Orlando 2016A template, and obviously additional button messages. If you have any suggestions or requests, please contact James Gholston.

Tabling

GETTING A TABLE

Once you know you plan to table at an event, look at the web page or flyer to see if they openly give a price for an event table.

These tables are normally provided by the event organizers (perhaps indirectly, such as via the hotel that's hosting a state party convention). Unless it's a very large event, the price should ideally be less than $100, possibly quite a bit less (in circa 2023 dollars). Sometimes tables are available at no cost. Sometimes bandit tables have been resorted to. If so, try to find someplace that's unlikely to get you or the caucus into trouble. Within the party at least, the purpose of such locations has been clear enough that people know to take and wear one.

GETTING AND SELECTING SUPPLIES

Optimally you should have the following by the time you're setting up, and you should request help as needed from the events or materials committees: Black tablecloth, banner (LPRC banner for party-facing events; outreach banner for public-facing events), the correct template of buttons (if it's a party-facing event, all buttons except Ask Me a Question and the LGBTQ Flag LPRC buttons should be using the black and gold LPRC template), brochures, issues of Libertarian Vanguard, and possibly even chocolates or candy. Other decorations that have been used include standing banners, inflatable letters, flowers, yellow/gold sashes (try to be at least close to Pantone 109C), flowers, and balloons.

For a public-facing event you may want to bring along the World's Smallest Political Quiz.

Also, try to keep the nature and scope of the event in mind when selecting which button messages to include for it. A gun rights rally should only have messages that pertain directly to gun rights, and a knitting and ice cream expo is probably a place to focus on messages that provide a very gentle on-ramp for someone's journey to independent thought that won't traumatize them and send them permanently on the defensive against the Libertarian Party.

If you have a copy of Ruwart's Short Answers to the Tough Questions, that's for your reference.

SETTING UP

If you have outreach template Ask Me a Question buttons, those are ONLY to go to other members of the Libertarian Party. If you have LPRC template Ask Me a Question buttons, those are only to go to members of the LPRC that can be trusted to answer questions on the caucus' behalf. If you feel up for and trust yourself to answer questions, maybe wear one yourself.

If you have brochure holders, be sure to fill those up. If you have more brochure types than holders (or don't have holders), place the additional brochures in tidy piles, segregated by topic. They should also be tidily arranged in a rectangular or hexagonal pattern unless there is an optional pile. Try to maximize the number of different messages available on the table for visitors to select from. Which message they leave the table wearing will be a statement about what they care about.

In determining how many buttons to put on the table, try to err on the side of too many. We want people to have the widest possible selection and we want as many people at the event to be seen by other attendees wearing our buttons as possible.

Some messages come in groupings and it would be good to keep them together. I Prefer Minarchy/Anarchy, Free Assange/Ross, Deregulate _____, et c. Remember that some are more popular than others and will disappear sooner.

It would be good to have some duplication of the most popular messages. With party-facing events, these typically include: Abolish the TSA, Deregulate Lemonade Stands, End the Fed, Taxation is Theft, the weed leaf and peace image buttons, and I Prefer Anarchy.

Try to have a Radical Libertarian Veteran button out. Not everyone qualifies, but a large percentage of those who do will want it instantly. If the event is public-facing and will have a lot of veterans (such as a typical gun show), there is now a selection of service-specific ones that you can make or request in advance.

The optional pile should look like it's quite a few buttons that you just haven't organized yet. It's been discovered that visitors will normally prefer to grab buttons from that pile.

Remember that for public-facing events, you the person running the table are the final arbitrator of which messages are on topic and within scope of the target audience. If someone sent you a Fuck the TSA button for a homeschooling rally, you're the one responsible for NOT putting it out.

DURING THE EVENT

Engage with visitors in a friendly manner, and if it's a party-facing event try to recruit some of them to join or donate to the LPRC.

If there are multiple events at the same venue, it's an outreach opportunity! Please engage with people attending for the other event, even if you're there for a party-facing event.

As the event progresses, try to fill in the gaps in your arrangement and refresh the optional pile if you have one, assuming you have more buttons than you could reasonably have on the table at the start.

If this is a party-facing event, try to find a local group or candidate who is in need of brochures for public-facing events and activities. Our platform-based brochures are designed for public outreach.

Physically attending the table to talk to people, answer questions, and draw people's attention is always a plus, but if this is not possible, most people will generally understand that the buttons and brochures are there to be taken. Do not leave Ask Me a Question buttons unattended.

AFTER THE EVENT

After the event, what to do with your tablecloth, banner, brochure holders, and remaining materials will vary. If you were sent a tablecloth and brochure for the specific event, you may want or be expected to pass what you have on to someone else who is attending an upcoming event. If you're covering multiple events or are a state coordinator, you may want to find out what you're low on and request more for your most probable next event.

The LP Radical Caucus is very grateful for your help with providing our presence at party events and for helping us to provide a party presence at public-facing events.

Size Categories

While this guide treats buttons as if there were five sizes, it's actually more like a dozen of them. With some effort and planning, however, most of these sizes have been made interchangeable with similar sizes. For simplicity, each category is referred to by its metric member.

25mm
1 inch

This was the second size category to be added

32mm
1¼ inch

This size category was added with the idea that it would be a more practical small size for anything with a message.

44mm
1¾ inch

This category was added to fill an obvious gap in the size progression. It's a reasonable option for anyone who wants smaller than the 58mm category that's not too small for anything complicated. As the newest addition, it's the least populated.

58mm
2¼ inch
2⅜ inch

This is the original category. If you go with our earliest button sheets you will find that many of them ONLY work with 2 3/8 -- not with 58mm or 2 1/4. As of 2020, all of our in use button sheets should be compatible with everything in this category.

75mm
3 inch
2⅞ inch

This is what we have for when we want noticeably bigger than 58mm.

Square

Not actually a size, it is hoped that this will scale with far fewer complications than button circles. It's presently only used with 2 inch stickers, but should scale to things that are other sizes, including textiles.

Button Presses

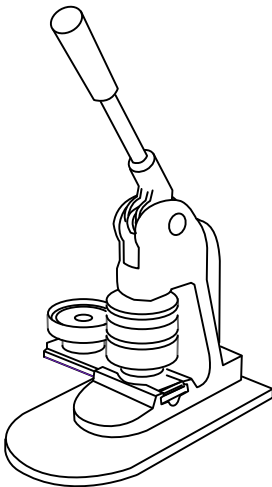

Tecre

In addition to some amazingly expensive electrical presses, Tecre makes manual presses in a wide selection of US sizes, including all supported LPRC button size categories. These presses are also resold through multiple other vendors including Dr Don's Buttons and American Button Machines.

RECOMMENDED.

Metal Sliding Die Chinese Metric

Machinery to manufacture this equipment appears to be sold to a number of manufacturers which then produce equipment that's identical to nearly identical and essentially interchangeable. Only metric diameters are supported, but it's a very wide range, including all five of our supported button size categories.

Different sized dies can be switched between on a given machine if desired.

They have a cut line that is further out from the bleed line than is typical of other equipment sources.

One huge advantage, at least as of this writing, is the sheer number of sources making and selling these and their supplies. Vevor and Dawei are the most prominent brand names, but may be using a slightly different design.

Another is that these are often remarkably inexpensive new.

A pneumatic variant exists, but appears to be a significant safety hazard.

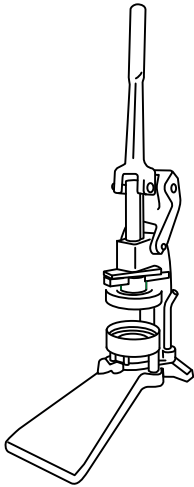

RECOMMENDED.

Badge-A-Matic I

This is a highly reliable button press and when purchased used is often highly cost-effective. Variants are available in multiple sizes, albeit only in the non-standard sizes introduced by Badge-A-Minit.

Caveat: does not work reliably with Tecre supplies except as described in the section on Tecre supplies.

RECOMMENDED.

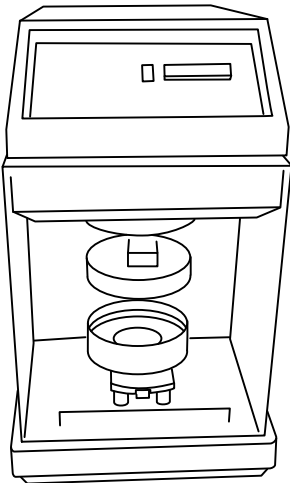

Badge-A-Matic II

This is probably the most cost-effective (and safest) electric button press on the market, especially if purchased used. It is only available for 2 $\frac{3}{8}$ inch button supplies. Caveat: does not work reliably with Tecre supplies except as described in the section on Tecre supplies.

While the protective door on the BAM-II electric button press may initially seem cumbersome, it's an essential safety feature designed to prevent accidents. This precaution allows you to comfortably produce buttons over extended periods without compromising on personal safety.

RECOMMENDED.

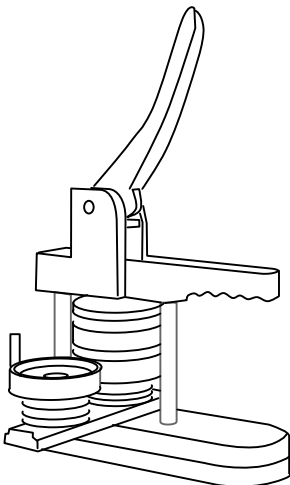

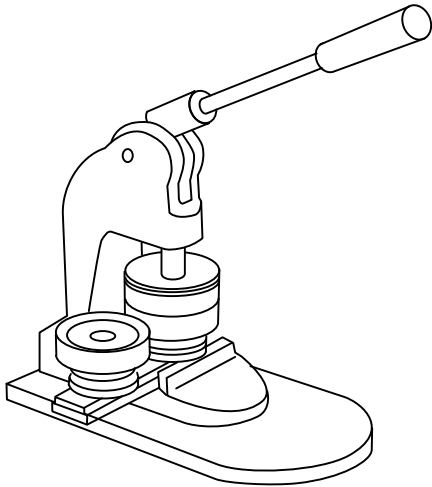

Plastic Die Chinese Metric

Sometimes referred to as 3rd Generation, this beautiful design looks like it belongs on your kitchen countertop and comes in an impressive selection of tasteful colors, but it goes downhill from there.

As with the metal die design, this one has no known definitive name and is probably produced by multiple manufacturers. The die connector for the sliding variant could be interchangeable with the metal ones but this has not been determined.

Plastic dies and all-plastic construction are not a good idea if you're wanting to make thousands of buttons. If it has a good use case, it's that its light weight might make it a choice for taking to events to make more buttons on site.

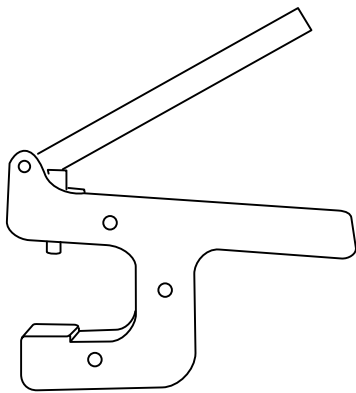

Badge-A-Minit 3-in-1

This is very similar to the metal sliding die Chinese metric press and may be the Dawei variant, but uses Badge-A-Minit sizes. It has not been evaluated, but some reviewers note that the Badge-A-Matic I is more reliable (and by extension more reliable than other Chinese sliding die metric presses).

It comes with dies for all three Badge-A-Minit sizes, all of which are in supported LPRC size categories.

This Badge-A-Minit press is very overpriced new and is not recommended at anything more than maybe a quarter of its full retail price.

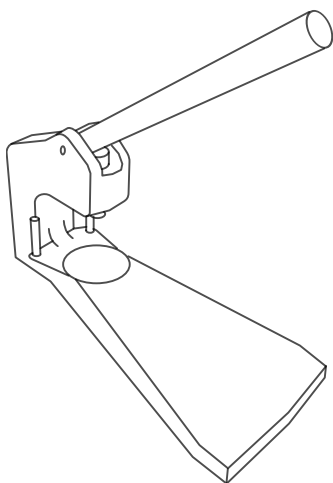

Badge-A-Minit Hand Press

This is a break-prone nightmare, and despite its low initial price is a bad investment. Button quality is poor and it's a not small RSI risk. Additionally, it takes several minutes to make a single button after way too much fumbling with easily misplaced rings that simulate a proper die. Its one advantage is that it does both $2\frac{3}{8}$ inch and Badge-A-Minit's $1\frac{1}{4}$ inch, but you really shouldn't bother.

Its only real use is as a cheap gateway drug to getting a real press. Please do yourself a favor and skip this step and just get a real button press directly.

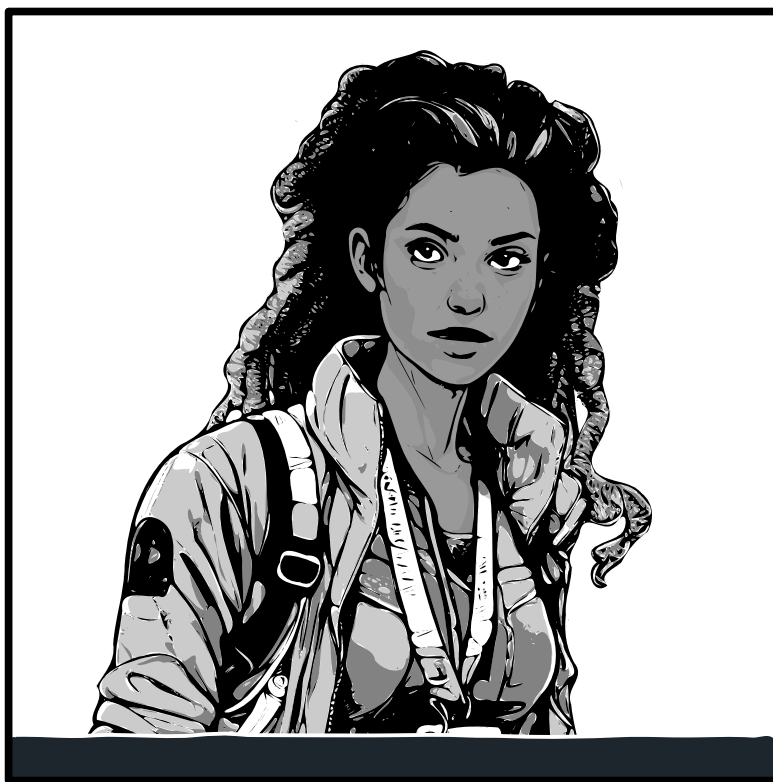

AVOID.

Badge-A-Minit Bench Press

Despite covering the full range of Badge-A-Minit's supported diameters with a single purchase, this is arguably the worst of everything: all the fragility and inconvenience of the hand press and its ring assembly issues and limitations combined with the expense of buying of a real button press.

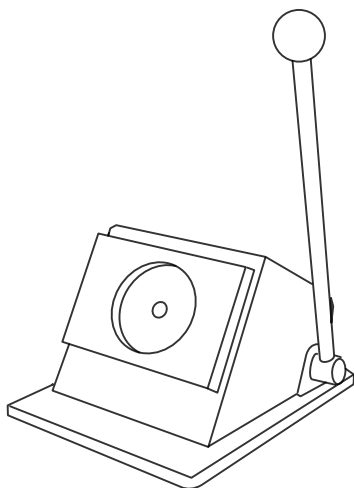

AVOID.

Leviathan...
That's the monster horror story
written by Hobbes, right?

Circle Cutters and Punches

Chinese Metric Punch

This is possibly the best way to cut circles: it's fast, easy, and can be quite accurate. Note that these things are heavy, though!

Relevant Supported Sizes:

25mm

32mm

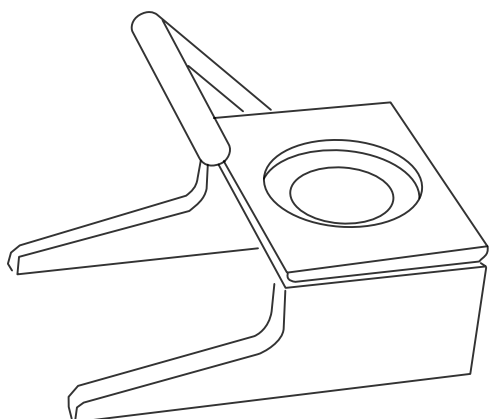

44mm

58mm (also 2 $\frac{3}{8}$ inch)

75mm

RECOMMENDED.

Tecre Punch

Lighter than the Chinese Metric punch. Should be just as accurate. These are often resold through other vendors such as Dr Don's Buttons.

Relevant Supported Sizes:

1 inch

1 $\frac{1}{4}$ inch (not Badge-A-Minit)

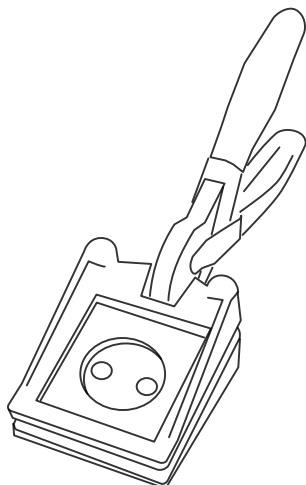

1 $\frac{3}{4}$ inch

2 $\frac{1}{4}$ inch

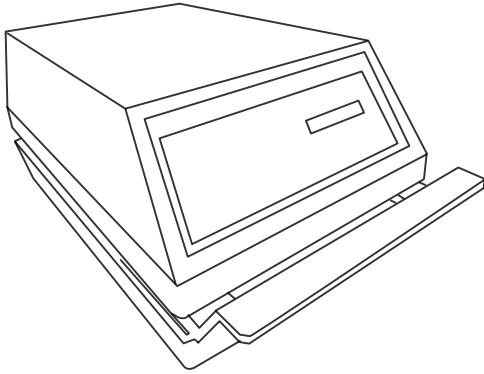

2 $\frac{3}{8}$ inch (for Badge-A-Minit, also 58mm)

3 inch

Handling Cutter

A punch, but you need to hold it in one hand while feeding the strip with another. May be useful for sizes you're not making thousands of.

Badge-A-Minit Cut-A-Circle II

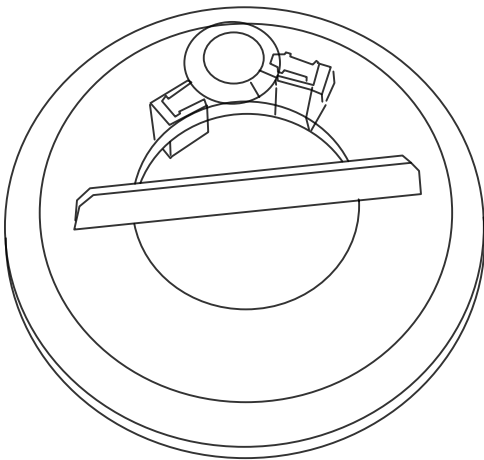

Badge-A-Minit 2 in 1 Cut-a-Circle

These are electric. The Cut-A-Circle II does exactly one diameter: the one needed for $2\frac{3}{8}$ inch buttons (also 58mm buttons).

The 2 in 1 is basically a two diameter variant of the Cut-A-Circle II, although it probably has an incompatible blade. Get the 2-in-1 if you expect to ever cut BAM's "3 inch" buttons.

It may be best to buy a new one directly from Badge-A-Minit to ensure that you can avail of the lifetime warranty. You will probably need it. Also, be sure to unplug when not in use as it continues to draw power and expend life expectancy while plugged in.

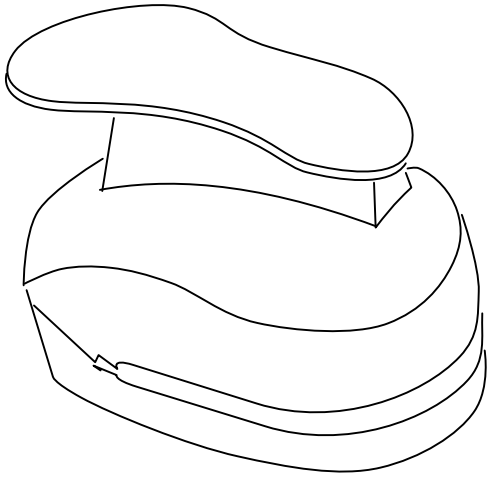

Supported Sizes:
 $2\frac{3}{8}$ inch (Also 58mm)
 $2\frac{7}{8}$ inch

Badge-A-Minit Cut-A-Circle I

This is only about $30 and has inexpensive replacement blades. Unfortunately, it gets painful to use after awhile and the blades wear out. Also requires a cutting pad.

Supported Sizes:
 $1\frac{1}{4}$ inch (Badge-A-Minit Only)
 $2\frac{3}{8}$ inch (Also 58mm)
 $2\frac{7}{8}$ inch

1.6mm Circular Craft Punch.

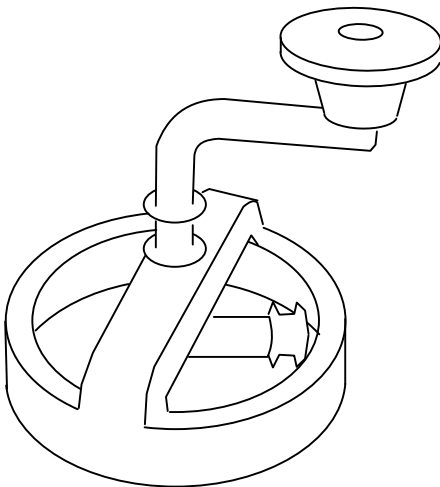

For Badge-A-Minit 1¼ only, an inexpensive, less than $20 option has been found on Amazon. The package claims to be 2 inch, which would not be a useful diameter for this application, and will make it harder to safely identify punches of the correct diameter from other sources.

In order to make precise punches, you will want to remove the bottom cover and hold it upside-down when using it so that each button is centered correctly.

It is possible that other punches with a suitable diameter for other small sizes may exist, but they have not yet been found.

Supported Size:

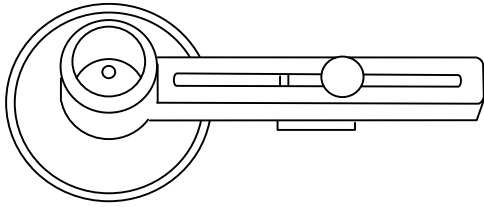

1¼ inch (Badge-A-Minit Only)

Push Down Circle Cutters

These designs are harder to operate than you'd expect. Also requires a cutting pad.

Not recommended.

Adjustable Rotating Cutting Circle Tools

If you just got a 58mm Chinese metric button press you almost certainly got one of these with it. It's just a pretense of being able to cut a bunch of uniform and precise circles.

This is also a seemingly inexpensive option you might see elsewhere, even from reputable companies such as Fiskars. Please don't make that mistake.

AVOID.

Button Supplies

Tecre

tecre.com

americanbuttonmachines.com

This is possibly the best quality source available, especially given what is by far the best pin on any button back available.

Unfortunately, it doesn't work reliably at all with Badge-A-Matic 2³/₈ presses despite being the correct diameter, giving a disturbingly high scrap rate.

Note that combining Tecre backs with either Dr Don's or Badge Parts Inc fronts works wonderfully with Badge-A-Matics I and II. If you can manage this, it would be the best buttons possible for BAM equipment. We have been told by Tecre that they can sell us just the backs over the phone, just not online.

American Button Machines buys their supplies from Tecre; they're completely identical.

Relevant Supported Sizes:

1 inch

1¹/₄ inch

1³/₄ inch

2¹/₄ inch

2³/₈ inch

3 inch

RECOMMENDED (with the above caveats).

2³/₈ inch

2⁷/₈ inch

Badge Parts, Incorporated

badgeparts.com

Good news: possibly the least expensive metal supplies on the market.

Other news: The quality is very unreliable and the pin design is disappointing. Not really recommended.

Relevant Supported Sizes:

1 inch

1¼ inch (standard)

1¾ inch

2¼ inch

2⅝ inch

3 inch

Badge-A-Minit

badgeaminit.com

Only available in Badge-A-Minit sizes and seriously overpriced. You can get 2⅝ inch, BAM-compatible 1¼ inch, and possibly 2⅞ inch supplies from several other sources to use with Badge-A-Minit equipment.

Relevant Supported Sizes:

1¼ inch (Badge-A-Minit version)

2⅝ inch

2⅞ inch

AVOID.

Dawei

Possibly the most prominent name for Chinese metric button equipment and supplies, the only known set of Dawei-branded supplies to have been used by us (metal backed 25mm) had a serious design flaw with the pin that resulted in a high scrap. If the back of the pin looks like a ribbon, you may want to avoid buying it.

Relevant Supported Sizes:

25mm

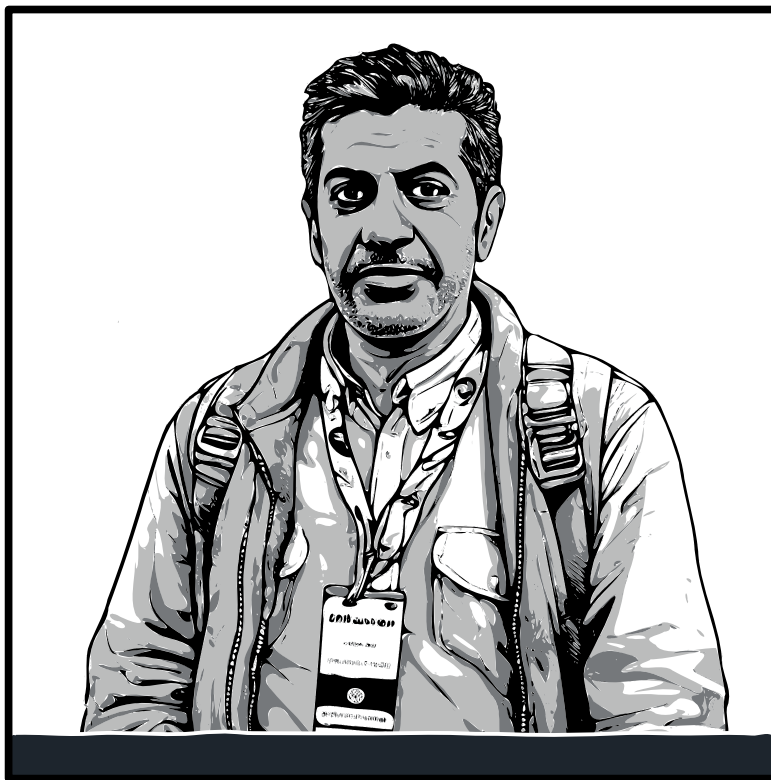

32mm

44mm

58mm

75mm

Printing Notes

IMPORTANT!

For LPRC Gold and Black buttons, use Neenah Astrobrights Sunburst Yellow paper ONLY. No second source that is the correct color has yet been found.

Each sheet should provide printing instructions.

If it says color on white, try for the most solid and white paper your printer can handle. For example, Hammermill Premium Color 28 lb Copy Paper is a good choice if you have a Brother color toner printer (LED based but may be referred to as laser, which was the earlier technology).

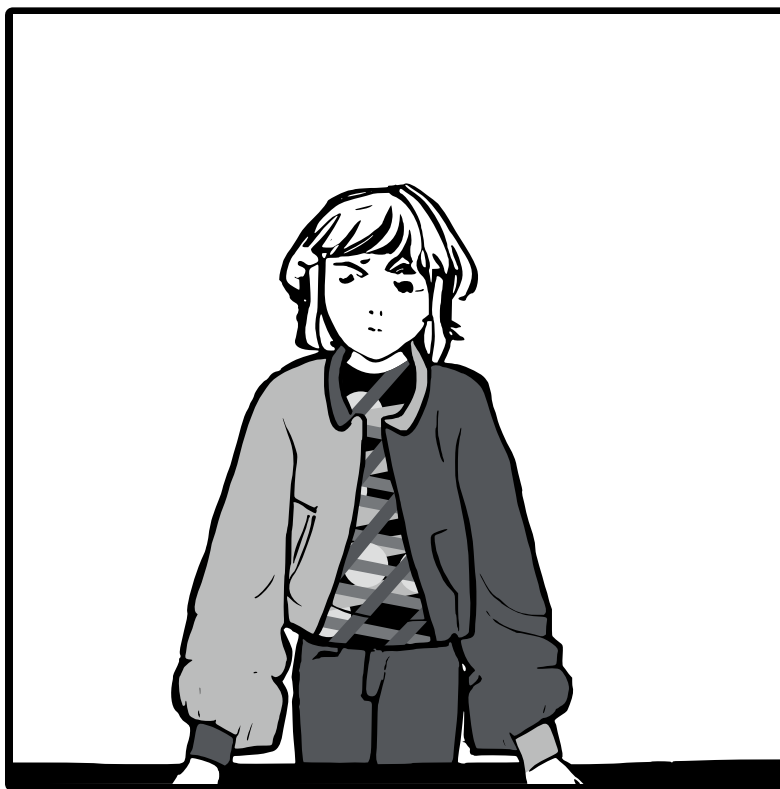

If it says to print black on gold, use Sunburst Yellow paper with any printer capable of printing black. A cheap black-only laser printer will work perfectly.

Remember to set your printer to a minimum of 600DPI if possible. For color, you want the settings most likely to produce accurate colors. You want them to match Pantone 109C, 288C, et c.

Toner print output is more resilient against getting even slightly wet. Inkjet prints can be ruined by a single drop of moisture.

A quick check for how accurate your color is would be to compare the edges on the outreach message buttons to a sheet of Sunburst Yellow paper. They should be close. If the color print is noticeably more green or orange than the yellow paper, then your color accuracy may need attention.

Be sure that prints are at actual, 100% size. Allow anything outside your printer margins to not be printed -- it's probably just blank anyway. One inch in the source file needs to be one inch on the printed page.

To obtain Alegreya fonts, visit the FONTS section of the LPRC Resource Kit at:

<http://stuff.radicalcaucus.org/resourcekit/pages/fonts.html>

For the LPRC logo with a transparent background, use the version provided in the LOGO section of the LPRC Resource Kit at:

<http://stuff.radicalcaucus.org/resourcekit/pages/logo-x4black.html>

Design Guidelines

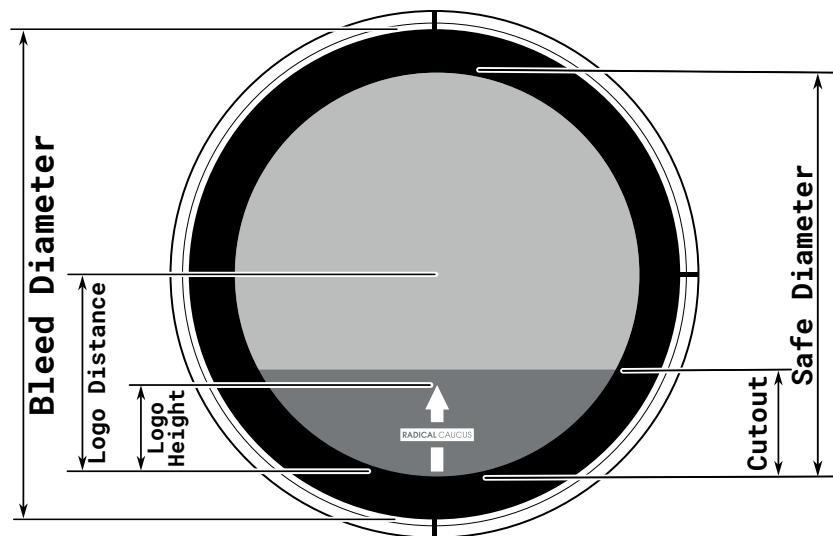

- All text should use the Alegreya typeface in black/heavy weight. The color scheme is Pantone 109C gold (sRGB #FFD100) on a black background. For printing on 109C gold paper, leave gold areas white.
- The safe area diameter is based on the smallest size within the size category. Refer to the provided table for safe area dimensions for existing size categories.
- Ensure no design elements extend beyond the safe area.

Logo Placement

- The logo cutout area is positioned at the top or bottom, with its placement dependent on text arrangement. It occupies 26.5% of the safe area height, with the LPRC logo centered horizontally within this space. See table for more precise description of vertical placement for established size categories.
- Logo height is specified for each size category. For new sizes, the logo height should be 21.5% of the safe area diameter.

Square

The square is only nominally 2 inches by 2 inches. It is meant to be scaled as needed for other sizes, including use on textiles and posters. Bleed areas need to be handled separately for different use cases, which are not specified here.

ABOLISH THE FEC

The Federal Election Commission was created in 1974 to enforce the statutes that were a knee-jerk reaction to Nixon's scandals. It infringes on free speech by regulating political spending and burying smaller voices in red tape that can be difficult to comply with. While many proponents say that it's to prevent the people with the most money controlling what political speech happens and what candidates get supported, this happens anyway. ...And as is typical with regulation it's the smaller candidates and voices that typically get silenced.

ABOLISH THE IRS

For more than a century, the Internal Revenue Service has been collecting the bulk of the money for the US Federal Government's wasteful and harmful spending. For it to be operating constitutionally, it would need an unbroken chain from a ratified portion of the US Constitution to its every enforced regulation. It would be unconstitutional if even one link was broken. In actuality, not a single link is unbroken. We would oppose it even if it was completely constitutional. We call for the abolition of the Income tax and the IRS and, as Harry Browne insisted, that it be replaced with NOTHING.

ABOLISH PRESCRIPTIONS

The prescription requirement for accessing many medications places the state between individuals and their healthcare, limiting personal autonomy and freedom of choice. Adults should have the right to self-medicate and make informed decisions about their health without mandatory physician approval, which can be costly and time-consuming. Eliminating prescription mandates would empower individuals to directly manage their health needs, increase access to treatments, and foster a better functioning market that could lower drug costs and spur innovation.

ABOLISH PROPERTY TAXES

Property taxes compel continuous payments to the government, undermining the very concept of ownership—if one must perpetually pay for property, does one truly own it? This tax disproportionately impacts lower-income individuals and the elderly, who may face financial hardship as property values and taxes increase, irrespective of their income stability. Moreover, the power to tax property is not just a burden but can be the power to destroy, as owners of large, unused buildings are sometimes forced to demolish potentially useful structures to avoid escalating tax liabilities. This results in a direct loss to society's infrastructure and resources. We call for the complete abolition of property taxes and champion the right to full and unencumbered property ownership.

ABOLISH STRICT LIABILITY

Strict liability is a legal doctrine that holds individuals or entities liable for damages or injuries, regardless of fault. The LPRC opposes strict liability because it conflicts with the principle of personal responsibility, often resulting in unjust outcomes and higher costs for consumers. We advocate for its abolition in favor of a system where liability is based on actual negligence or intent to harm, aligning with our commitment to individual rights and a free market economy. This approach ensures fair justice and encourages responsible conduct without penalizing innovation and economic growth.

Skateboarding is not only a sport but a mode of transportation and a form of self-expression. However, in many places, it's restricted by laws that can lead to fines or even criminal charges for skaters. Decriminalizing skateboards means repealing these punitive laws, advocating for the right to skate freely in public spaces without fear of legal repercussions. It's a call for embracing skate culture and recognizing skateboarding as a legitimate activity that contributes positively to community dynamics and urban life.

DO IT WITHOUT GOVERNMENT

Government programs and intervention should never be a go-to solution for any problem or task. When not prohibited, this is a good mindset for problems in general -- to the greatest extent that the government can be ignored, work around it or as if it didn't even exist.

Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders, especially its fifth edition, was opaquely developed by revolving door insiders and is too often used to take away people's rights. Minimum wage was designed by actual white supremacists to keep jobs away from people in demographics they didn't like. It's one of the most successful government programs in human history. >8(The market, when allowed to, has far more powerful tools for keeping wages for valuable jobs higher that doesn't shut people out from having jobs at all. Without minimum wage and red tape, SOMEONE can find an entry level job for you, even if your marketable skills are not in high demand or able to bring in much revenue.

SUE THE POLLUTERS

Polluters often impose costs on society that are not accounted for in their production processes. Holding polluters accountable through civil lawsuits is an important way to ensure those externalized costs get factored back into business decision making, incentivizing better environmental stewardship and eliminating the free pollution loophole currently enjoyed by many industries.

SUNSET THE JONES ACT

The Jones Act was first passed in 1920 and requires goods shipped between US ports to be carried on vessels built and crewed by Americans. Compliance has only gotten more onerous over the past century, and it has been used to protect certain economic interests while harming smaller businesses and most especially consumers, massively driving up their costs. Repealing the act would open up competition, reduce prices, and ultimately benefit American citizens.

WAGE PEACE

War is a terrible and costly thing, causing untold suffering to all involved. Instead of relying on violence as the first resort for solving conflict, we should pursue peaceful solutions through dialogue and diplomacy whenever possible.

WAR IS A RACKET

This phrase was originally coined by Major General Smedley Butler (1881-1940), a two-time recipient of the Medal of Honor who served in multiple wars and became an outspoken critic of war profiteering. His famous phrase "war is a racket" serves as a reminder of the devastating costs (economic, political, moral) associated with armed conflict and encourages individuals to oppose war wherever possible.

WE ARE NOT THE CONSTITUTION PARTY

The US Constitution Party, originally the US Taxpayer's Party, is actually a sectarian Christian religious conservative party. We are very much not them. However, given their increasing obscurity, this button has the risk of being significantly misconstrued and is not recommended for use. After all, if we must have a government, we absolutely want it constrained by a constitution.
